George S. Smith Campaign Closes Postal Notes

George S. Smith, Hope native, former editor of the weekly Baxter Bulletin of Mountain Home, joined us today as managing editor. He'll be introduced around town and the trade area and should get Hope's traditional welcome to a new citizen.

Fortunately we found a house for George, his wife and two children. They'll make their home at 1103 S. Main St.

I'll add this commentary on Smith: It was the opinion of this writer and the late Paul Jones, managing editor for most of his 43 years here, that Smith is one of the best newspaper photographers in Arkansas. That carried a lot of weight in The Star's selecting him—for this newspaper has emphasized local pictures ever since our Arkansas Centennial Edition of June 26, 1936.

The highlight of the campaign for U.S. Senator was Sunday night's debate between old John L. McClellan, incumbent, and young Congressman David Pryor.

As an old varsity debater myself (Oberlin College, Ohio, 1919) it is my objective opinion McClellan destroyed Pryor—the cold, hard facts of 30 years' service in the Senate pitted against youth's generalities.

I've absolutely nothing against Pryor personally, but if his Big Labor ties don't beat him in Tuesday's runoff primary then I am a poor political observer.

The debate was carried by six television stations, I understand: Channels 7 and 11 in Little Rock (seen here only on Cable TV, meaning the Hope urban audience only); and the TV stations at Fort Smith, Fayetteville, Pine Bluff, and Jonesboro. But the absence of rural TV coverage was made up by radio coverage on 40 stations (including Hope) of the Arkansas Radio Network.

McClellan doesn't have all the wealth his opponent claims he has—because Dorsey McRae, Jr., trustee for the local McClellan forces, was around to see me this morning and collected $50 cash.

Dorsey also reported: "I was in Little Rock Sunday at McClellan headquarters and thought you would be interested in knowing that the editorial that you wrote last week (published last Thursday, June 8) is pasted on the front window of the headquarters."

Newspapers were divided between the two senatorial candidates. McClellan was endorsed by The Star, Arkansas Democrat, DeQueen Daily Citizen, Stuttgart Leader, and the Palmer group of papers: Texarkana Gazette, Hot Springs Sentinel-Record-New Era, El Dorado News-Times, Camden News, and Magnolia Banner-News.

Arkansas Gazette and Pine Bluff Commercial endorsed David Pryor.

The chips are down—and the verdict will come in Tuesday night.

Here are some postal notes—one of them being against us. Mrs. James Griffin, Route One, Fulton, writes:

"Here's some more news for your file on the postal service. We received the June 1 edition of the Arkansas Baptist newsmagazine (from Little Rock) on June 7. This means we didn't receive the Sunday School lesson commentary for June 4 until June 7."

And this one against a Star mistake:

Velma L. May, Washington postmaster, writes under date of June 9:

"The Hope Stars that had the Washington (Ark.) label were for Columbus, so suppose the ones for this office went there, or some place besides here anyway."

That error traces back to The Star's mail room, the postal service is in the clear. I can't recall such an error on our part in many years—and you may be sure we've called the circulation department's attention so reputation of the error will be guarded against.

12 Die in Truck Collision Near Alexandria

Truck-Trailer Hits Loaded Pickup

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A tractor-trailer truck loaded with wheat smashed into the back of a pickup truck carrying 14 persons on a swimming outing Sunday, killing 12 and critically injuring another.

The big truck hit the slowly moving pickup as it was preparing to make a turn from U.S. 165 about 20 miles south of here to a road leading to the Shady Nook swimming hole, State Police said.

The truck climbed on the bed of the pickup, powering it 275 feet and pounding it into a pine tree with such thrust the cab was crunched into about a two-foot area, officers said.

Eleven victims were aged 1 to 18. The 12th was identified as the pickup driver, Martha Meaux, 30, of Woodworth.

All but one of the dead were from Woodworth, a small community near Alexandria. The other was from New Orleans.

The tractor-trailer driver, Gus Wiley, 24, of Deville, La., was hospitalized in shock.

State trooper Robert J. Rigby said it might be a day or two before he could talk with Wiley, who the officer said was a Vietnam veteran.

Most of the victims were related.

Rigby said seven victims were among nine persons who were riding in the bed of the pickup truck, with the other five in the cab. All were wearing swim suits.

The two survivors of the accident were among three who were thrown from the truck. One—Linda Stanley 13—was taken to a Shreveport hospital, where she was reported in critical condition.

Swim Caps For Lifeguards

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Lifeguards here have offered to don swim caps rather than cut their long hair in compliance with a recent city order.

Public Safety Director Mario Floriani recently ordered the guards to cut their hair to "collar length," but agreed the men should be spared the scissors until he returns this week from a trip.

"Some of the men on the busier beaches have long hair and, even though they might have anywhere from 25 to 50 rescues each day, they never seem to have any trouble," said Draper.

The lifeguards estimate Floriani's order would affect at least half of the 150-man patrol.

Education Bill Prepared

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Officers of the Arkansas Association of Collegiate Veterans have announced that the group is preparing a bill for consideration by the 1973 legislature to provide state educational aid to veterans.

Dewey Spencer of Cotton Plant, a senior at State College of Arkansas who is association president, said the organization seeks state-paid tuition and books for veterans attending tax-supported colleges.

He said the cost would run about $2.5 million in the next school year, when about 5,000 veterans are expected to enroll in the colleges.

U.S., British Walk Out on Libya

BEIRUT (AP) — The U.S. and British ambassadors walked out on Libya's government chief Sunday after he assailed their governments and said he is supporting the Irish Republican Army and American blacks.

"Britain and the United States will pay dearly for the wrongs and perfidy they inflicted on us," said Col. Muammar Kadhafi in a speech in Tripoli on the second anniversary of the evacuation of U.S. forces from Wheelus Air Force Base.

Egypt's Middle East News Agency said Ambassador Peter Tripp of Britain walked out when Kadhafi accused Britain of collusion with the Zionists by relinquishing Palestine to Jewish control in 1948. He also charged that British collusion with Iran last year allowed Iran to occupy three little islands at the mouth of the Persian Gulf which Arab sheikdoms on the Arabian coast of the gulf claimed.

Homemade Bombs Thrown

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Four small homemade bombs were thrown into offices of pro-government organizations Sunday night. Most of the offices were unoccupied, damage was minor and no injuries were reported.

The explosions apparently were an aftermath to student demonstrations Saturday in which 20 persons were arrested.

The bombs went off at the headquarters of the Federation of State Workers, the National Workers Union, the Mexican Youth Institute and the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party.

emerged from the debate. Pryor, 37, accused the McClellan campaign of doing "anything and everything for political survival," saying there had been a barrage of untruths and half-truths that obscured the issues.

McClellan, 76, said that "out-of-state labor bosses" were helping finance and staff Pryor's campaign because they "have never forgiven me and they want revenge." He said he had risked his political future in the 1950s with his investigations of labor as chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, claiming that almost 100 labor leaders were "convicted of crimes" as a result.

"Now, they're trying to take their toll," the senator said. "Now, they have a candidate."

Pryor denied that he would be controlled by anyone, and

Exclusion of Negroes From Club Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld the right of private clubs to exclude Negroes.

The 6 to 3 decision was delivered by freshman Justice William H. Rehnquist. It went against a black brought as a guest to the Moose Lodge in Harrisburg, Pa.

The black, Leroy Irvis, the major leader of the Pennsylvania House, contended that since the club held a liquor license from the state it could not exclude blacks as members or as guests.

Rehnquist said the club's refusal to serve Negroes does not violate the 14th Amendment even though the Moose Lodge gets its liquor license through the state.

"Since state-furnished services include such necessities of life as electricity, water, and police and fire protection, such a holding would utterly emasculate the distinction between private as distinguished from state conduct," he said.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Harry A. Blackmun and Lewis F. Powell, the three other Nixon administration appointees, lined up with Rehnquist, a former assistant attorney general. Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White also were in the majority.

Dissenting were Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., and Thurgood Marshall, the court's only Negro member.

Brennan said Pennsylvania's liquor regulations plainly intertwined the state with the operation of the lodge's bar in a significant way and lent the state's authority "to the sordid business of racial discrimination."

Orientation At Southern State

Southern State College will hold four summer orientation meetings for students who will be entering SSC in the fall. Dates for the one-day meetings will be June 14, 21, July 12 and 19 according to Dr. Donald A. Haefner, vice president for student affairs. Students entering SSC for the first time attend one of the meetings at which time they select their courses for the fall and complete nearly all of their fall registration procedures.

U.S. Delegate Returns to Parley

PARIS (AP) — The chief U.S. delegate to the Vietnam peace talks returned from Washington today and indicated the United States may end its five-week-old boycott of the talks.

Ambassador William J. Porter told newsmen at Orly Airport that President Nixon has been "intensely interested in arriving at some kind of negotiated settlement of the Vietnam problem."

"My return here at this time is an additional indication of his strong preference and hope that such a settlement can be achieved." "We feel that the proposals we have brought forward, and to which they have made no response, offer a good basis for discussion," Porter said.

"If we can get such a discussion going, I wouldn't care to say that it would be limited by this or that. We would try to be flexible as we have tried to be, or intended to be, in the past."

Centennial Plans Are Underway

The City of Hope will be 100 years old in 1975, and a centennial committee has been formed to plan and carry out a full year of activities.

Starting in September 1974, there will be one planned event per month—train rides, athletic events, musical programs, religious observances, flea markets and others.

A finance committee composed of Mitch LaGrone, Leonard Ellis and Ray Lawrence will spearhead a drive next month to secure $100 pledges from individuals using the theme "100 Dollars for Hope's 100 Years." The funds will be used for printing, postage, and other administrative functions, and used to acquire property and make further preparations for the centennial activities.

Pledge cards for individuals will be available at Citizens Bank, First National Bank and Hope Federal Savings and Loan. The committee has reminded that all gifts and pledges are tax-deductible.

Fired Air General Admits 'Liberal' View of Orders

Poll Gives McClellan Thin Edge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pollster Eugene Newsom said Sen. John L. McClellan appeared to hold a "razor thin margin of support" over Rep. David Pryor before their televised debate Sunday night, but that it was difficult to predict the outcome of the race.

Newsom said a precise reading was impossible in the survey he conducted Friday. The poll was based on 50 interviews and was taken on his own and not for either candidate, Newsom said.

He said that "if we have overshot McClellan by one point plus one vote, Pryor leads."

Newsom said the study indicated "with some degree of reliability that McClellan had maintained most of his first primary vote in which he led Pryor by about four per cent. He also said that McClellan had received some of the support of persons who voted in the first primary for Ted Boswell and Foster Johnson, "but not a majority of them."

The pollster said his poll showed that Pryor led among women voters and the young, while McClellan led among middle- and older-age groups.

He said McClellan also led in towns of between 2,500 and 10,000 population, has a smaller lead in towns below 2,500 and in rural areas and is running even with Pryor in cities with a population of more than 10,000.

The Associated Press weekend highway fatality count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

New York Winds Up Primaries

By GREGG HERRINGTON Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, continuing to close in on the Democratic presidential nomination, today opens his final push for the year's final primary: New York's delegate-rich contest which he is expected to win big.

The South Dakota senator and his traveling entourage of aides and newsmen today planned a trip to New York by chartered jet and a visit to three of the city's five boroughs.

Included in the itinerary was a tour of Harlem Hospital, accompanied by the widow of slain civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

The final week of campaigning here follows McGovern's one-day trip Sunday to South Dakota to view the destruction caused by heavy rains and flooding in Rapid City, S.D.

He called it "a scene of incredible destruction and desolation."

McGovern plans to spend six of the remaining eight days before the June 20 primary in New York State. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the only other major still-active candidate for the nomination, did not enter the New York contest.

McGovern has delegate slates entered in all but two of the state's 39 congressional districts.

He is generally expected to emerge from the Empire State's contest with over 200 of the 278 delegates at stake and travel to Miami Beach with about 1,300 first-ballot votes. It takes 1,509 to win the nomination.

McGovern's trip to South Dakota followed what was described as the worst disaster in that state's history.

All Around Town

The Hope City Police weekly report shows fifteen traffic violations, eight license violations, thirteen liquor violations, three drunkenness, two driving while intoxicated, one failure to answer summons. There were seven accidents during the week with six injuries. Total accidents for the year is 133 with 19 injuries and no fatalities.

The Cattleman's Association will not meet for their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening. The next scheduled meeting is July 11, at 8 p.m. at Perry's.

Scoutmaster Olen Overturf announces there will be no meeting of Troop 91 tonight.

Camp Robinson is occupied by Girls State delegates this week. Those going from Hope and their sponsoring organizations are Kathy Graves, Cotillion Federated Club and Hope Improvement Association. Marynell Bragdon, Hope Rotary Club, Betty Ruth Honeycutt, Jett R. Graves Sunday School Class, Sue Butler, Citizens National Bank; Debbie Crank, Hope Lions Club; Patti Page, Hope Kiwanis Club; Evelyn Maxwell, Anna P. Ben D. Downs of Hope has accepted an Opportunity Award Scholarship for study at Texas A&M University. He was selected for the award by TAMU's Faculty Scholarships Committee on the basis of academic ability and leadership potential. There were 1,700 applicants for 215 scholarships given in the program. Student Aid Director Robert M. Logan said 1972 Opportunity Award recipients have the best scholastic records of any annual group in TAMU history. Ben is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Downs, Route 1, here. He is a 1972 Hope High School graduate and plans to study electrical engineering at Texas A&M.

Lavelle Up Before Panel in Bombing

By JIM ADAMS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Air Force general fired as a top commander in Vietnam last spring confirmed to congressmen today that he "chose to make a very liberal interpretation" of the rules and ordered strikes on North Vietnamese targets.

Retired Lt. Gen. John D. Lavelle told a House Armed Services investigating subcommittee he ordered the then unauthorized air strikes because of the heavy North Vietnamese buildup preceding its attack on South Vietnam April 1.

"With this air defense buildup," Lavelle said, "increased aggressiveness of the North Vietnamese and the large number of North Vietnam regular army units that had infiltrated south or moved into position to move across the demilitarized zone, I chose to make a very liberal interpretation of these rules of engagement."

He referred to rules of engagement that at that time prohibited U.S. air strikes into North Vietnam in line with the 1968 bombing halt except for "protective reaction" retaliatory strikes.

Lavelle referred to the air strikes he ordered as isolated instances.

As commander of the 7th Air Force he was in charge of all tactical air operations in Vietnam, including protective reaction strikes against the North from bases in South Vietnam and Thailand.

Lavelle was personally relieved of command in March by Gen. John D. Ryan for what Ryan later called "irregularities in the conduct of his command responsibilities" and Lavelle said he could see Ryan's viewpoint that "I had exceeded my authority."

Ryan, in a brief statement to the subcommittee, said he relieved the general of command simply because "General Lavelle admitted to me that he had executed a small number of such strikes to attack military targets, reported as protective reaction."

Ryan said he offered Lavelle the option of retirement or a new assignment and Lavelle chose retirement.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., told the House last month he believes Lavelle was dismissed for permitting unauthorized bombing attacks in North Vietnam prior to President Nixon's decision to resume large scale bombing of the north in April.

Construction Bid Accepted At Millwood

LeForge and Budd Construction Co. of Parsons, Kansas submitted the apparent low bid of $150,023 for the construction of public use facilities at Millwood Lake on Little River, near Ashdown, Ark., at a bid opening held June 8 by the Tulsa District Corps of Engineers.

The government estimate was $122,943. There was 1 bidder. The work is to be complete in 210 days.

Col. William E. Read, District Engineer, said hydrants and water lines will be installed in the Saratoga Landing public use area, while one shower and toilet building with sewer, water and electrical systems, will be constructed

Rapid City Death Toll Is Now 208

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer
RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — The death toll in the nation's worst flood disaster in 44 years has reached 208, and officials fear many more bodies will be found outside Rapid City in the streams that filter from the nearby Black Hills.

Civil Defense officials estimated the missing at 500, and said today that it was impossible to estimate the number of injured.

At least 3,000 persons were left homeless, and damage was estimated at more than $100 million.

Maj. Gen. Duane L. "Duke" Corning, commanding 2,500 National Guardsmen in Rapid City, said about 1,000 men worked into the night "turning over any debris that might hide a body."

Mayor Donald Barnett imposed a 10 p.m. to dawn curfew on the city of 43,000. He halted night search operations by the more than 3,000 civilian volunteers, and said the rescue teams accomplished as much during daylight hours as they did working around the clock.

The volunteers and guardsmen have been at work since daylight Saturday, hours after a wave crashed through an earthen dam at rain-swollen Canyon Lake on the western edge of Rapid City.

The water smashed through the city, flipping cars, crushing trees and lifting homes off their foundations and slamming them into a heap of splinters blocks away.

Sen. George McGovern and Gov. Richard Kneip visited the devastated area Sunday. McGovern called it "incredible destruction," and said he would ask Congress to provide extraordinary relief for his home state if deemed necessary.

Hundreds of persons were inoculated for typhoid and tetanus at the Rapid City High School and the Pennington County Health Department. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare stockpiled 10,000 doses of the inoculations.

Rapid City has been without water since the floods struck, and officials said it will be late tonight before drinkable water is available through city facilities.

Drinking water was delivered by nearby Ellsworth Air Force Base and passed out in pots, cans and kettles at designated locations.

The water cutoff made plumbing facilities inoperable. The natural gas supply also was cut off but telephone service was restored.

Flood Dead Includes Great Cross-section

By DAVID M. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer
RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — They were doctor, lawyer, Indian. They were professor, bank clerk and housewife. All killed by the flood which struck Rapid City.

The list of the dead included the prominent and little-known people.

They were: "Mrs. Long Soldier, 204 N. St." and "Long Soldier, 204 N. St., age 5." And they were Father Francis Collins and Maj. William Medley.

No. 27 is "W.G. Bishop, 2718 Lynnwood." No. 28 is "Nellie Bishop, 2718 Lynnwood."

"I knew Mrs. Bishop," a Rapid City businessman said Sunday. He looked at a colleague and asked: "Wasn't she the one that worked as a teller over at the bank?"

Some of the dead were in Rapid City by chance, or because they were sent there. Marvin Pepper and William Rough were both staff sergeants at Ellsworth Air Force Base. They were swept away in the early moments of the flood.

sent disaster teams to Rapid City on Sunday to begin assisting the victims.

The disaster was the worst ever in South Dakota. A winter blizzard in 1888 killed more than 100 persons. The worst flood in U.S. history was in Johnstown, Pa., in 1889 when 2,200 were killed.

In 1938, floods spawned by hurricanes claimed 1,836 lives in southern Florida.

David Heraty, 17, said a brother and a friend came home Friday night and warned a flood was coming. He gave this account of what happened: "We thought he was kidding. We just sat there, and pretty soon this big bunch of water came down the creek. We ran next door and the next thing I knew it was up to my neck."

"Pretty soon the top of a house came floating by and we grabbed onto that. A little ways downstream we got off and climbed on to the roof of a neighbor's house, where we stayed all night."

The rescue operations concentrated on areas stretching two blocks from both sides of Rapid Creek. Along Jackson Boulevard, a section of comfortable ranch homes, the wall of water literally crushed houses.

On Omaha Street, hundreds of cars were caught in the deadly wave and remained embedded in silt.

Privately owned construction equipment, including giant cranes, was used to pry vehicles and rubble out of the muck and search for bodies. Search parties planned to scour the foothills for campers who may have been trapped.

as the water raged down U.S. 79 near the Rapid City dog track.

Some were prominent, such as Raymond Fox, a former city judge; Dr. Lowell Dieter, a professor at the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology; or Maj. Medley, head of the local Salvation Army, or William Wagner, a salesman for a television station.

And there were those like No. 18: "Billie Clane Smith, address unknown, female;" like No. 52: "Joyce Christensen, child."

And there was the Rev.

Francis Collins, whose death was mourned Sunday by Rapid City's Indian community.

Father Collins died early Saturday at the Mother Butler Center, where he had worked to help the Sioux.

Father Collins had remained at the center after a bingo game broke up about 11 p.m. Friday night, about an hour before the waters came.

"He went down with the ship," said Basil Hart, head of the Center's Men's Club. "I found him under some boards in the kitchen. I think he could have gotten out, but he didn't."

Husband Died in Flood, Wife is Helping Injured

By JAMES WILSON
Associated Press Writer
RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Joy Medley and her husband Bill were Salvation Army majors at Rapid City when the flood hit. Now, she is staying busy helping the living victims and he is one of the more than 200 who died when waters swept through the town.

"The last I heard from him was about 8 o'clock Friday night when he yelled, 'Honey, I am going out to Story Book Island to see if I can help,'" Mrs. Medley said Sunday.

Story Book Island is a park hit by 5-foot-deep flood water. "He was doing what the Lord called him to do when he died," she said. "He was going to where he was needed. I'm sure many people in the community grieve him. He was needed here."

Mrs. Medley, who said she had slept little and eaten nothing since Friday night, was supervising the Salvation Army clothing and food distribution center Sunday, the same job she held when informed Saturday night of his death. And she said she was sticking with the relief work until the emergency is over, then continue their church and charity work.

Salvation Army Maj. William G. "Bill" Medley, 50, had removed the camper from the family pickup to help assist rescue efforts after a warning was sounded of the impending flood Friday night.

"I know he was going to help someone when the flood waters caught him," his widow said. "He had the keys to the truck in his pocket. They never found the truck."

Bill Medley had been an officer in the Salvation Army 24 years this month.

"I grew up in a Salvation Army family," Mrs. Medley said. "My parents started the Salvation Army church in Columbia City, Ind., and when we were kids Bill started coming to our Sunday School classes. We went together, and when he got out of the Army we were married."

"We were commissioned at the same time" in the Salvation Army, she said. They served in Indiana for 11 years and then at Fergus Falls and Fairmont, Minn., and at Williston, N.D., before moving to Rapid City two years ago.

"Bill was an avid outdoorsman and he knew this area like a book," she recalled. "If there were any way to escape that flood, he would have known it."

Emperor Hirohito May Visit

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — President Nixon has invited Emperor Hirohito to visit the United States, presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger announced today as his weekend visit to mend relations between the Nixon administration and Japan drew to a close.

Kissinger told a news conference he delivered the invitation to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato Saturday. Sato said "an appropriate time would be worked out through normal diplomatic channels" for the visit.

No Japanese emperor has ever paid an official visit to the United States. However, Hirohito made a brief stop in Alaska last October when he visited Europe, and President Nixon flew to Anchorage to greet him.

Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda reported Kissinger admitted that Washington made mistakes in its dealings with Japan last year and promised to spare the Japanese any more "Nixon shocks."

The "Nixon shocks," as the Japanese call them, were the President's failure to consult Sato before reversing his China policy and announcing he would visit Communist China, and the imposition without warning of the 10 per cent surcharge on imports, a measure designed primarily to reduce imports from Japan.

Fukuda said Kissinger, after admitting his government should have worked more closely with the Japanese, promised that Washington would consult Tokyo in advance on future moves toward China and on economic measures affecting Japan.

Kissinger was said to have shown keen interest in a proposal for a bilateral agreement to anticipate future sources of friction in U.S.-Japanese economic relations.

In three days of meetings with opposition as well as government politicians, industrialists and editors, Kissinger called the U.S.-Japan security treaty the keystone to peace in Asia and said the United States would like to see it maintained without revision.

Kissinger told his windup news conference that the United States does not expect Japan to become involved in the defense of the rest of Asia, but it can play an important international economic role.

The Japanese defense role is one for Japan to determine and does not depend on any "prescriptions" handed down from Washington," Kissinger said.

"Our basic view is that Japan should be able to take care of its conventional defense, of the conventional defense of its home island."

Gospel Meeting Outcome of Near Tragedy on Road

by JOE GORDON
Of The Sweetwater Reporter
SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP) — Five carloads of California evangelists bound for a congress of evangelism in Dallas made the most of a near tragedy on the highway near here Sunday.

Three of the students from Whittier College on the West Coast suffered injuries serious enough to put them in a Sweetwater hospital as their vehicle and a big cattle truck collided—and sent livestock fleeing pell-mell across the countryside.

The crash also laid the big truck on its side across both halves of Interstate 20 just east of Sweetwater, blocking all traffic, and the unhurt colleagues in four other vehicles set about witnessing for Christ, as one expressed it.

After seeing that help was on the way for the injured, others in the Whittier party handed out literature about Christ and talked to the assembled crowd about Him—the practice for which they said they were en route to Dallas. There they plan to attend Expto '72, a week of evangelistic conferences, seminars and rallies expected to draw 100,000 young people.

Later at Sweetwater's West Side Baptist Church where the uninjured students attended an evening service, the visitors said members of their group were "at peace" despite the accident.

And at a Sweetwater hospital where the injured were taken, some of the colleagues huddled in the foyer and prayed.

Rick Yorty of Euphrates, N.Y., one of the Whittier party, suffered serious pelvic injuries and numerous cuts. He was told that he would be unable to finish the trip to Dallas, which had been planned for months. Yorty commented only "Praise the Lord."

Also taken to the hospital for treatment were Cathy Berris of Monterey, Calif., who suffered a concussion, and Cathy Colard of Whittier, Calif., who suffered arm and leg injuries.

After being quartered in Sweetwater homes overnight, others in the caravan were resuming their trip to Dallas today.

Telling how it happened, Larry Baskin of the Whittier group said he felt the accident was the Lord's will.

"Right before the crash it was raining raining," Baskin related, "and immediately after the crash the rain just quit. We were dry."

"And through the whole thing of helping the kids in the (wrecked) car, picking up their belongings and getting them in the ambulances, it didn't rain. Then we got back in our cars to go to the hospital to see how they were doing, and the rains came back."

Evel Knievel Rides Again

ATLANTA (AP) — Evel Knievel, the daredevil motorcycle stuntman, arrived at Lakewood Park racetrack in an ambulance and said, "I promised I would be here."

The injured Knievel told the crowd who had come to see him leap 13 cars on his bike Sunday that announced his doctor wouldn't let him make the jump.

Knievel's miscalculation during a practice jump the day before resulted in a compression fracture of the back and injuries to both his hands.

Knievel, who has broken dozens of bones in unsuccessful jumps, was lifted by attendants to the seat of his motorcycle. Then he made two fast runs down the track straightaway, doing wheelstands for about 100 yards.

U.S. Moves Forces to Thailand

KHON KAEN, Thailand (AP) — A contingent of U.S. Marines has moved secretly into Northern Thailand, apparently to ready an unused air base for Marine fighter-bombers.

Thai officials in Khon Kaen indicate that the new influx of Americans is not welcome.

The U.S. Embassy has not confirmed the presence of the Marines, and there is no official word on how many are present. But numerous trucks and other vehicles with USMC markings can be seen around the Nam Phong Air Base 21 miles north of Khon Kaen and 240 miles north of Bangkok.

On many other vehicles, the Marine Corps insignia and other markings are blocked out with masking tape, apparently to conceal their identity.

Reports from Washington on Sunday said Marine squadrons that were recently moved into South Vietnam to help blunt the North Vietnamese offensive will be moved to Nam Phong.

The U.S. Embassy in Bangkok said today that U.S. military strength in Thailand is now 40,000 men, an increase of 7,500 since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30.

More Showers Ahead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered thunderstorms in the central part of the nation, including the Dakotas, and a few others along the Gulf Coast today contrasted with fair and cool weather in both the East and West.

One thunderstorm spawned a tornado near Bismarck, N.D., while another storm pounded Dickinson, N.D., with hailstones an inch and a half in diameter.

More than an inch and a half of rain fell on Miami during a six-hour period.

Temperatures in parts of the Northeast and Northwest fell into the 30s and 40s early today, with frost expected in some areas by dawn.

TO THE CITIZENS OF HOPE SCHOOL DISTRICT:

A handbill was distributed over the weekend that implies that I, as Tax Assessor, was responsible for your children having only eight months school because I had failed to properly assess enough taxes.

Well, the FACT is, taxes were assessed and the money was available. The teachers were paid a FULL NINE MONTHS SALARY. Ask any teacher.

The decision to have only an eight months term was not related to me or the Tax Assessor's office. It was a school matter entirely. Ask any School Board member.

I am doing my job as Tax Assessor and will do the same good job as County Judge.

MRS. JOE W. WALKER

Miss Mary Beth Levins and Joe William Walker were wed Saturday evening, June 10, in the Hope Church of Christ. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James R. Levins of Hope and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Walker of Spring Hill, Tennessee.

Bro. Milton H. Peebles officiated at the ceremony. A group from the church provided the traditional wedding music with Mrs. Paul Morgan as soloist. Double-ring marriage vows were exchanged in a candlelight setting with greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organzine that featured bands of Venice lace and Schiffli embroidery, that extended from her Victorian neckline to the hem of her Watteau chapel train. Matching Venice lace flowers held her veil of illusion. Her only jewelry was a gold wedding band of her maternal grandmother's. She carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and greenery.

Mrs. Paul Morgan was matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Misses Susan and Sally Baker of Little Rock, and Miss Annette Walker, cousin of the bride, of Hope.

The bride's attendants wore Victorian style dresses of mint green dotted swiss. They were accented at the bodice with bands of lace, and at the waist by mint green satin ribbon. They wore embroidered daisies of green and white in their hair, and carried colonial nosegays of mixed spring flowers.

Allan Walker of Lubbock, Texas, served his brother as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Gerald Rice of Dallas; Eli Weaver of Mt. Dora, Florida; Tim Rowland, cousin of the bride, and Paul Morgan of Hope. Tim Rowland and Paul Morgan were also candlelighters.

The flower girl was little Miss Leigh Anne Walker, niece of the groom. She was dressed in like fashion to the bride's attendants. The ring bearer was Master Billy Wayne Weaver, nephew of the groom.

Mrs. Levins, mother of the bride, wore a lilac voile ensemble with matching accessories, and Mrs. Walker, mother of the groom, wore an aqua crepe dress with white accessories. Each had a cymidium orchid corsage.

A reception followed at the church parsonage. Floral arrangements and a memory candle enhanced the setting. Members of the house party included Miss Debbie Bryant, Miss Sherry Crank, Miss Mary Beth Millican, Mrs. Milton Peebles, Mrs. John Sunderland, Mrs. Harold Alexander, Mrs. Bennett Wood, Mrs. Ardell Clark, Mrs. Loy Garner, Mrs. Jeff Millican, Mrs. Audrey Spates, and Mrs. Linton Crank of Hope. Other members were Mrs. Gerald Rice of Dallas; Mrs. Eli Weaver of Mt. Dora; and Mrs. Allan Walker of Lubbock. Miss Susan Clark of Hope presided at the bride's book, and little Misses Melinda Weaver, niece of the groom, and Renay Rowe, cousin of the bride, distributed the rice bags.

For a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the bride wore a blue printed knit dress with white accessories and had a corsage of white roses, stephanotis and greenery. When they return, the couple will be at home in Franklin, Tennessee.

Rehearsal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Walker were hosts at a rehearsal dinner at the Town and Country Restaurant on the evening of June 9 for the Levins - Walker wedding party.

This is your newspaper. Write to it. Address letters to: Editor The Star, P.O. Box 648, Hope, Ark. 71801. All letters must be signed, with address so you are identified to the newspaper staff, but if the character of the letter permits we will allow use of a pen-name in the publication, in which case you should add "Citizen," or some other word below your real name and address.

Pen-names are permitted when a letter deals only with issues. Direct attacks upon public officials, however, must bear the writer's name for publication.

RAILROAD PROBLEM

Editor The Star: We are some more citizens of Hope that live on the north end of Elm Street. We read the letter Mrs. Worthey wrote and are in complete agreement with everything she said. There is just one thing wrong and that is that she did not say enough, or maybe she said too much.

There was a little work done to clean up the side of the railroad track and you can tell just where their property line comes too, for that is just where they stopped. Promises have been made for several years before she moved down here five years ago that this end of this street was going to be cleaned up and we are still hearing about what is going to be done in the future.

A petition was circulated, and signed, by everyone in this area about eight years ago to get this mess on this end of this street cleaned up, but it did no good at all.

If she can get something done, she will be the first one for we have all tried. Where there is bushes, vines, and trees growing up like they are along that railroad track and the lot on the end of the street there is going to be a fine crop of rabbits and rats.

If we put out poison that would kill the rats it would also kill the dogs that are not fenced in. We all are proud of our homes and keep them attractive as possible, but when the property around you that belongs to someone else is not kept up it is discouraging to say the least.

Peggy Worthey has just not lived down here as long as the rest of us, or she too would realize that it is useless to try to

Leaves Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ann Mead, Sen. George McGovern's eldest daughter, has been released from the hospital at which she gave birth to the South Dakota senator's third grandchild.

The child, Kevin, was kept at California Hospital Medical Center for further observation following Mrs. Mead's release Saturday.

Mrs. Mead, 27, was campaigning for her father when she gave birth to the child on June 6.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Sports fans and music lovers got most of the programming breaks over the weekend on television.

There was baseball, golf and horse racing, among other sports. And there was Sunday night's remarkable "Portrait of Stravinsky" on the public broadcasting stations for another crowd.

The hour program was filmed six and seven years ago when the composer, who died last year, was 83 and 84. It was done in cinema verite style, most of the time with the people involved seemingly unaware of camera. And seemed to have been handled casually. In some segments the composer was talking in his Beverly Hills home about everything from the Picasso caricature of himself as a younger man to a long anecdote about Jean Cocteau's three attempts to write a libretto for Stravinsky's music. He spoke of music with the enthusiasm of a boy. In another he was working with Pierre Boulez correcting an error Boulez had found in one piece of printed music.

A wise, amused old man, Igor Stravinsky was seen rehearsing an orchestra, discussing a ballet, answering questions of an interviewer.

Often the lighting was poor, the sound was fuzzy, and, most difficult, the conversation whipped among English, French and German, with only occasionally a translation. Out of this somehow came a portrait of a fascinating man. It is an invaluable record.

Also of interest to the musically minded was a feature on Andre Previn and his actress-wife, Mia Farrow, on CBS' "60 Minutes." Previn is a former jazz pianist and composer of Hollywood film scores who recently was given another four-year contract with the London Symphony Orchestra. He was described by narrator-interviewer Richard Dimbleby as "England's Leonard Bernstein."

White Sox Bat Homers To Sweep Double

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It is a simple fact that running is the fastest way to get around on a baseball field. And the Chicago White Sox have never questioned that axiom.

Always a speed-oriented ball club, the Sox have, however, made an important discovery this season. They've added the home-run trot to their running repertoire and found that you can make it home a lot more leisurely that way.

The Sox socked half a dozen home runs Sunday en route to a 6-4, 5-4 doubleheader sweep over Milwaukee that moved them within 3½ games of Oakland in the American League's West Division. The Athletics had their eight-game winning streak ended by Detroit 3-2 on Bill Freehan's ninth-inning homer.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, Kansas City shut out New York 1-0, Baltimore trimmed Texas 3-1, Minnesota took Cleveland 5-3 and Boston whipped California 6-4.

Dick Allen led Chicago's long ball attack with two homers in the opener, his 10th and 11th of the season. Ed Herrmann, Mike Andrews and Luis Alvarado also connected. Three of the homers came in the third inning as the Sox scored four times.

In the second game, the Brewers scored four runs, three of them unearned, in the second inning. Pat Kelly got half of them back with a fifth-inning two-run homer. Doubles by Carlos May and Bill Melton shaved another run off the lead in the sixth and then singles by Kelly and May sandwiched around a stolen base tied it in the seventh.

In the ninth, George Scott's two-base throwing error on an attempted sacrifice put the Sox in business and May's bases-loaded single—his fifth hit of the day—delivered the winning run.

Freehan cut short an Oakland rally with a heads-up defensive play in the top of the ninth inning, then pounded Ken Holtzman's first pitch for a leadoff homer in the bottom half of the inning to move Detroit past the A's.

Freehan picked Ollie Brown off second base, running past the pitcher's mound and almost all the way to shortstop with the ball before tossing to Ed Brinkman for the putout.

Freehan clouted his third homer of the season to beat Holtzman, 9-4. The Tigers had tied the score an inning earlier when Aurelio Rodriguez led off with a triple and scored on Tony Taylor's sacrifice fly.

Dick Drago scattered five hits, outdueling Steve Kline as Kansas City shut out the Yankees.

Drago and Kline were locked in a scoreless battle until the

ABA Meets To Decide Fate of Franchise

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The fate of the Memphis Pros, Pittsburgh Condors and the Floridians, the American Basketball Association's financially weakest franchises, will be decided at the league's two-day Board of Trustees meetings, which began today.

The Pros are likely to play another season in Memphis under new ownership, while the future of the Condors and Floridians is uncertain, according to Richard P. Tinkham, appointed two months ago by the trustees as a one-man stabilization committee to study the three struggling franchises.

"The league (now five years old) always has carried the weak sisters," Tinkham said Sunday. "But now it has decided that it is going to be strong. We are not going to be as flexible as we were in the past."

"I guess when this meeting is over, there will be a minimum of nine or ten franchises that will continue," added Tinkham, executive vice president and secretary of the Indiana Pacers.

Since the league began play in the 1967-68 season, opposite the older National Basketball Association, it has had 11 teams each year. But the franchises have been continually changing hands, with only Indiana, Kentucky and Denver remaining from the original group.

Dallas and Pittsburgh, current members, also were among the originals, but both have played in other sites since 1967.

"Our most important problem is who is going to play and where," said Tinkham, in pointing the main purpose of the meetings.

Also on the agenda is dis-

Donohue's Porsche Will Be Tough To Beat

By BLOYS BRITT

AP Auto Racing Writer

Some four years ago Mark Donohue and car owner Roger Penske left the Can-Am road racing series in a huff, saying they wouldn't be back until they had a winner.

Well, they're back—not with a winner yet, but with a fancy new L & M Porsche that almost certainly will cause the long-dominant Gulf McLaren cars a heap of trouble before the nine-race series is over.

The McLaren won Sunday's 1972 opener at Mosport Park, Ontario, old-timer Denis Hulme bringing home the lead car just as he has in 21 of the previous 44 races in the series' six-year history.

But Donohue, the 1972 Indianapolis 500 winner, was slowly but surely running Hulme down and probably would have caught him had the race gone a few more laps.

Pete Revson was third in the other McLaren, though the New Yorker had it wrapped up with a five-mile lead only three laps from the end, only to be forced out by vibration problems.

Elsewhere, two blue-and-white French Matras streaked across the finish line together at Le Mans to capture first and second place in the world's only current 24-hour race.

The lead car was piloted by Frenchman Henri Pescarolo and Britisher Graham Hill. The second-place car, officially nine laps to the rear, was handled by Francois Cevert of France and Howden Ganley of New Zealand.

Joakim Bonnier, a close friend and neighbor of world champion Jackie Stewart, was killed during the race.

In Sunday's other major

Martin was credited with the win for the Giants having eight strike-outs and Smith was charged with the loss, but had 11 strike-outs.

In the last game of the night, Jackson was on the mound for the Cubs having 14 strike-outs, allowing only one hit and giving up six walks. The Braves hurler was Liem who had 11 strike-outs, gave up two hits, and walked six.

Thursday night, June 15, the games are as follows: 6 p.m. Yankees vs Giants, 7:15 Dodgers vs Cubs, 8:30 the Cards vs Braves.

Smith Runs Ahead To Win 440

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are three kind of streaks in track.

The unbeaten kind like Rod Milburn's. And the former streaks, like Jean-Louis Ravelomanantsoa's. And the kind John Smith looks like going down the stretch of a quarter mile.

Smith streaked ahead of his top foe Friday night in the 440 to win an important showdown—of which there figure to be at least two more this year—in the Vons Track Classic.

Smith's time of 45.0 seconds was his second consecutive fast clocking after an early season attack of hepatitis.

Meanwhile, Milburn ran his unbeaten streak to 65 races in winning Friday night at Los Angeles and then Saturday in Berkeley at the Kennedy Games.

And a streak which came to an end was that of Jean-Louis. The stocky sprinter from the Malagasy Republic hadn't lost a short race in two years, clocking 9.3 in the 100 yard event and 10.0 in the 100-meter dash. But he met his match Friday and Saturday with two defeats in a row. First Ray Robinson of Florida A & M won the 100-meters in 10.3 at the Vons meet as Jean-Louis was third back of France's Roger Bambuck.

Then, Ravelomanantsoa was second in a heat of the 100 at the Kennedy Games before pulling out of the finals with a slight muscle pull.

In other fine track performances, Dr. Delano Meriwether won an Eastern AAA 100-yard event in 9.5 seconds.

Amherst, Mass., and Bruce Scully set a national school record for 330-yard hurdles, 36.6 seconds.

Audibon, N.J.

The old mark of 36.7 was set by Bob Bornkessel.

The Vons meet produced excellent Olympic-type performances, especially from veteran Jim Ryun, sudden sensation George Woods and a high school junior, Curtis Beck.

Ryun's 3:57.3 time for the mile in beating a fine field gave him "more confidence in myself than I've had recently."

Woods tossed the shot 70 feet one-quarter of an inch to beat world record holder Randy Matson and Al Feuerbach, and Beck ran a solo mile in 4:04.2.

He's only 17.

But Smith and Milburn stood out as explosive forces.

Rodney hasn't lost a race in more than two years and said, "I kind of wish I had lost somewhere along the line because I'm feeling the pressure of the streak." His time Friday night was 13.4.

Smith admitted, "I give Lee Evans credit for everything I do on the track."

Evans made a gallant move in the stretch Friday night but Smith zipped into the tape first by a nose.

Fatal Crash Overshadows LeMans Victory For Hill

LE MANS, France (AP) — The trees near the "Indianapolis Bend" on the Le Mans 24-hour Auto Race circuit are sheared off near the ground for 50 years.

The scythe was the hurtling yellow Lola sports car of veteran Swedish driver Joakim Bonnier, who died instantly in the wreckage.

An instant's error in trying to pass a slower car ended a 24-year career at the heights of auto racing and cast a pall over the victory, eight hours later, of his old teammate, Graham Hill, in the classic race Sunday.

Bonnier, founder and only president of the Grand Prix Drivers Association and leader of the campaign for increased safety on circuits and in cars, was killed on a stretch of road specially widened and lined with barriers just for this race—but on a section yet to be improved. It was Bonnier's 13th time here.

A member of a Swedish publishing family, he was, with Hill, the last of the old guard drivers who raced against such men as Juan-Manuel Fangio, Alberto Ascari, Mike Collins and the Marquis de Portago.

And Bonnier was still driving and capable of leading a top race like Le Mans, as he did early Saturday. He had won a four-hour race here last March and held the track record. Hill and Bonnier were close friends from their days together in the British Racing Motors team in 1960.

The Matra team kept the news of Bonnier's death from Hill and his French teammate, Henri Pescarolo, until after they brought their Matra-Simca 670 across the line for the first French victory here since Louis Rosier won in a Talbot in 1950.

It was a "horrible shock" and "sad that my first win here in 10 attempts should be in these circumstances," Hill said.

Those who were there gave varying versions of the accident in which Bonnier, 42, died. But it was clear that he was attempting to pass a Ferrari driven by Florian Vetsch of Switzerland at a kink in the track where the drivers usually had the accelerator on the floor-boards, traveling at about 170 miles an hour.

Vic Elford of Britain, driving an Alfa Romeo, said that Bonnier had just passed him. The way Elford reconstructed it, Bonnier was looking for an opening on the right of the Ferrari and the two cars touched.

Bonnier's Lola skidded out of control onto the left side of the track where it hit a guard rail and flew out toward the trees lining the track.

For the organizers, who again got the 300,000 plus crowd that makes Le Mans one of the biggest single sports events in the world, the problem remains.

Do the fans come to see the exotic, thundering sports specials, or do they want to see how cars they could drive on the roads will stand up to 24 hours of racing?

Bass Festival Kicks Off

LAKE TEXOMA, Okla. (AP) — The 10th annual National Sand Bass Festival kicked off Sunday at several Lake Texoma locations with activities ranging from swimming and foot races, to motorboat races, to a fishing tournament.

The week long festival will end Saturday with a massive fish fry at the courthouse square in Madill, with as many as 30,000 persons expected.

Sunday's activities featured runabout and hydroplane boat races in Little Glasses Cove, 11 miles east of Madill in southeastern Oklahoma. The motorboat program was sponsored by the Oklahoma Boat Racing Association and included skippers from Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

According to an association spokesman, Oklahoma boat racers outscored their Texas counterparts, 14,752 to 6,397. Top individual performers included Ken Bayer of Tulsa, who won four different races, and David Smith of Oklahoma City and Jim Wilkins of Dallas, who won three events each.

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — "After the fight started, I knew it wouldn't last 10 rounds," Jose Napoles said. It lasted less than two. And when the Saturday night bout was over, Napoles had retained his world welterweight boxing title with a technical knockout over No. 1 challenger Adolph Pruitt of St. Louis.

Riva Ridge Wins Smashing Victory

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Trainer Lucien Laurin is going fishing and while he is waiting for the fish to bite he can think about the hook he has into racing's 3-year-old division.

Laurin trains Riva Ridge, the Kentucky Derby winner who scored a smashing seven-length victory in Saturday's Belmont Stakes. And he also conditions three other 3-year-olds called Upper Case, Spanish Riddle and Quill Gordon.

This quartet has scored a total of 15 victories, four seconds and two thirds in 32 starts, accounted for eight stakes triumphs and earned more than $660,000 this year.

Spanish Riddle, owned by Roy Anderson—the other three run for Meadow Stable—made his debut on the grass by winning the one-mile fifth race at Belmont Park Saturday. Quill Gordon, also starting on grass for the first time, was out of the money.

Then, three races later, Riva Ridge, the 1971 2-year-old champion, bounced back from his fourth-place finish in the Preakness to establish his leadership of the 3-year-old division by running the third fastest 1½ miles the 104-year history of the Belmont.

He's a wonder horse, that's what he is," Laurin said after Riva Ridge was timed in 2:28 over a fast track despite kicking himself in the paddock before the race. Gallant Man set the stakes and track record of 2:26.3 in 1957 and Stage Door Danny won 2:27.1 in 1968.

Riva Ridge, who in his career has never surrendered a lead, won the front under Ron Lester on the first turn and

Snead Won't Play In Shadow of Uncle Sam

By RALPH BERNSTEIN Associated Press Sports Writer PHILADELPHIA (AP) — J.C. Snead gets a little testy when you bring up the fact that he's the nephew of veteran golfing great Sam Snead.

The subject came up again Sunday after J. C. won the $30,000 first prize in the $150,000 IVB Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Someone asked J. C. if he felt he played in the Shadow of Uncle Sam, who won every major golf title but the U.S. Open. "I don't care what they say," J. C. snapped. "I won. I beat everybody who was here."

That he did. Snead shot an unspectacular fourth round par 36-36-72 over the 6,708-yard Whitemarsh Valley Country Club for a 72 hole total of six under par 282. He beat Chi Chi Rodriguez by one stroke. Snead had rounds of 70-71-69-72, and Rodriguez 71-68-70-74 for a 283.

Dick Rhyan, who had qualified for only four tournaments this year, finished in a tie for third with Jim Jamieson, leader of the first two rounds. Each had 285, with Rhyan shooting a two under par 70 and Jamieson a one over 73 in the final round. Then came 1969 champion Dave Hill at 286, Hubert Green, Homero Blancas and Bob Murphy at 287; Art Wall and Gay Brewer at 288, and Tony Jacklin and Jerry Heard at 290. Defending champion Tom Weiskopf finished tied for 16th at 293, while Gary Player was grouped at 295, tied for 23rd.

U.S. Wins Curtis Cup

WESTERN GAILES, Scotland (AP) — Jean Crawford of New York, captain of the United States Curtis Cup women's golf team, had warned: "The British players are good, hard drivers and it won't be easy."

She was right. It wasn't—although the Americans managed to come away with a 10-8 victory Saturday.

After halving the morning foursomes, the Americans needed just two victories in six afternoon singles to ensure retention of the trophy they won two years ago at West Newton, Mass.

The seven-woman U.S. squad did it the hard way, losing three of the first four singles as the British side swept back to tie at 8-8.

But Lancy Smith of Snyder, N.Y., got a vital 3-and-2 victory over Diane Frearson, then Beth Barry of Mobile, Ala., made the final tally, beating Kathryn Phillips by the same score.

The United States has now won the Curtis Cup 13 times since it was first presented in 1932, with Britain taking the trophy twice and two matches halved.

Tours Promote Harmony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A group of Hawaii residents has completed the first day of a 15-day tour of American cities to promote harmony between the races.

They are part of Operation Aloha, a privately financed campaign led by Charles M. Campbell, 53, a Honolulu high school teacher for 20 years. He also is a former Honolulu city councilman who in 1970 ran unsuccessfully for lieutenant governor in the Democratic primary.

He said Hawaii is an excellent example of a "melting pot" where blacks, Orientals, Caucasians and Polynesians have learned to live together. "We want the mainland United States to learn from our example so the people here can stop this racial polarization that is threatening our country and learn to live together with people of different lifestyles, religions, backgrounds or races," he said.

The multiracial group, on its third tour, left Los Angeles Sunday for Dallas. Other scheduled stops include San Francisco, San Jose, Chicago, Washington, Memphis, Columbus and Atlantic City.

Michelle Anderson, an Operation Aloha member, said when the eight members of the group arrive in any community, they try to meet with "the common people as well as business and civic leaders."

'Phone Rate Hike Due for Most of U.S.

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Telephone rates are going up in most of the country and American Telephone & Telegraph Co., last year's top money maker, is seeking another $1.2 billion in 18 separate cases.

Critics claim the communications giant doesn't need or deserve the money. And depending on where they live, they may also have a harsh word to say about service.

"The reason AT&T needs so much money is because of poor management," says Asher Ende, a Federal Communications Commission attorney appointed to defend the public interest in one rate case. "If regulation merely covers up these mistakes, efficiency doesn't improve."

American Telephone says telephone charges have not kept pace with increases in other consumer prices, while inflation has bitten deeply into earnings. This reduces the attractiveness of Bell System stock and bonds, the company says, making it increasingly difficult to raise money to meet service demands.

"The increases are necessary so we earn enough money to provide first class service," says F. Mark Garlinghouse, an AT&T vice president.

Since 1970, AT&T has boosted its rates some $1.7 billion a year or 10 per cent. It is now seeking another $1.2 billion a year in 18 separate rate cases around the country.

American Telephone is a giant holding company which owns or participates in 24 separate Bell companies and a long distance division. It operates about 100 million telephones in 48 states, 10 times the number of phones of its nearest competitor, General Telephone & Electronics, and handles about 80 per cent of the nation's telephone calls.

With profits from its manufacturing and research subsidiaries, it netted $2.2 billion in 1971, up 2 per cent from 1970. In comparison, General Motors, the world's largest industrial corporation, earned $1.9 billion last year. AT&T's first quarter profits this year were up 6 per cent to $592 million.

Telephone rates are set by local, state, or federal agencies, which try to strike a balance between consumer demands for reasonable rates and investor requirements for a fair rate of return. The Price Commission has decided to leave rate decisions in the hands of these agencies, within certain guidelines.

From 1960 through 1971, local telephone charges rose 11 per cent and long distance rates dropped a little over 4 per cent, while consumer prices rose nearly 37 per cent, AT&T claims.

Despite this, the rate of earnings during the first part of the '60s was climbing. Technological improvements, such as conversion to the direct dial system for long distance calling, produced sharp economies. Telephone usage was increasing at a pace that could be handled, explains one industry analyst.

Torture Charges Arise

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Some of Brazil's Roman Catholic bishops leveled new charges during the weekend that the country's military government is torturing political prisoners.

The southern region of the National Council of Bishops issued a statement accusing authorities of using "physical, psychological and moral torture methods leading to mutilation, the breakdown of health and even death."

The bishops also condemned arrests "that seem like kidnappings," in which security agents pick up suspected subversives without the written arrest orders required by law.

Reports of torture in Brazilian prisons began to spread in 1969 and 1970. The government, which took power in 1964, denied it had a policy of torture but said overzealous members of the armed forces and the police might be using rough methods to get information from prisoners.

Finance Committee to Decide How to Raise Funds

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee meets today to decide how to raise the money to pay for Social Security increases it approved for 27 million persons.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said the decisions on the higher taxes needed to finance the benefits would wrap up the committee's work on the massive Social Security-welfare reform bill.

However, the committee's staff is expected to take an estimated two weeks to draft the legislation before it is ready for floor debate.

The panel last week voted to include a 10 per cent across-the-board boost in Social Security in the bill after rejecting a 20 per cent boost on a 7-7 tie vote.

But Long, who favored 20 per cent, said that 64 senators now support the higher percentage, and it is almost certain to be raised when the bill reaches the floor.

Chances appear good that a 20 per cent hike in benefits will be in the final bill sent to President Nixon since Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who will head the House conferees, has urged that figure.

Nixon has recommended that Congress limit the hike to 5 per cent.

The Senate committee's version of the legislation calls for annual cost-of-living raises in payments if the price index advances 3 per cent a year.

Under present law, the maximum Social Security tax for a worker is $468.00, obtained by multiplying the 5.2 per cent rate times the $9,000 wage base.

This is scheduled to go up to $508.50 next year when the base will remain at $9,000 but the rate will advance to 5.65 per cent.

The amount paid by the worker is matched by his employer. The pending bill, as it passed the House last year, would boost the top tax in 1973 to $550.80. It would do this by raising to $10,200 the amount of annual earnings subject to tax, although the rate would be increased only to 5.4 per cent instead of the 5.65 per cent provided by the present law.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a widespread belief that increases in productivity are more difficult to obtain in the service industries, such as health, recreation, insurance and education, than in the manufacture of goods.

And when it is noted that the United States economy is steadily becoming more service oriented—for the first time, more money was spent last year on services than on goods—the notion becomes mixed with concern.

It even leads to dire forecasts that the American quest for the good life, which is represented by the growth of services, may lead to a deterioration of the nation's competitive position.

A look at the figures would tend to confirm the fears. During the decade of the 1960s, productivity in the services rose by an annual rate of about 2.3 per cent, compared with 3 per cent in manufacturing.

But that was past, and according to an acknowledged authority on service industries, John R. Beckett, it need not be the future. The efficiencies of volume, he maintains, are not limited to the production of goods alone.

Any time you have a one-on-one effort, such as in the barber shop, you have limitations, Beckett concedes. But he also claims that many service jobs need not require one worker for each client, although that is often the way they have been practiced in the past.

In the teaching of surgery, he states, there is no reason why students should be huddled around an operating table when vastly greater numbers could be just as effectively taught through the use of video tapes.

Beckett believes that the future of productivity increases in services is highly dependent upon a marriage with manufacturing. Without machines, services would remain dependent upon human energy.

How do you improve the productivity of the barber, the automobile mechanic and the bus driver by improving machines, he was asked?

Beckett passed on the barber, although it isn't inconceivable that future barbers might be far more productive by relying upon chemical treatments where machinery fails them.

The automobile mechanic's productivity could be raised quickly, Beckett believes, by the use of sophisticated diagnostic equipment. And the bus driver's output might be improved by not thinking of him as a bus driver but as a people mover operating more efficient mass transportation vehicles.

True, there will remain the need for one-on-one services, Beckett concedes, but he adds that often the limitations are in our conception of the job. In most instances, the economies of scale are available, he says.

Death Toll Rises In Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — Three more civilians and another British soldier were killed in Northern Ireland Sunday, raising the death toll to 367 in the three years of violence in the province.

Two of the civilian deaths came in a five-hour gun battle between the British army and rival Roman Catholic and Protestant factions around the Catholic Ardoyne district of Belfast.

A military spokesman said the Protestants and Catholics exchanged several hundred shots after a youth was shot and killed. He said troops swept into the area, came under heavy fire, suffered two wounded, but hit five gunmen with return fire.

The soldier was killed by three sniper bullets that smashed into his head as he manned an observation post overlooking the Catholic Bogside area of Londonderry. The Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army said its men did the killing.

Brown Pelicans Sighted

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Between 150 and 300 California brown pelicans—feared threatened with extinction by DDT—have been sighted nesting off the Ventura Coast.

Dr. J. Gordon Edwards, a San Jose State University professor, said Saturday he made the observations by sea and by air on Santa Cruz Island. He also claimed seeing an "abundance" of the big sea birds on South Coronado Island south of San Diego.

Edwards said he does not believe charges that the pesticide DDT was responsible for softening the pelican shells and rendering them unhatchable like those found after the Santa Barbara oil spill in 1968.

He said the thinness of the shells mainly was caused by high concentrations of mercury and lead in the spill area and the effects of people walking through the pelican nesting areas during the spill cleanup.

AN OPEN LETTER TO ARKANSAS FARMERS

John McClellan was born on the soil and raised on a farm.

Like many of us, he's toiled from sun up to sun down to earn a living for himself and his family. John McClellan knows the high costs of working your farm... he knows what inflation is doing to the farmer... and he knows that the farmer needs a stronger voice in the marketplace.

John McClellan knows that we cannot survive with secondary boycotts as practiced by Cesar Chavez. John McClellan knows that the use and regulation of pesticides must be determined with due respect for the farmers' interests.

John McClellan knows what the dock strike did do and can do to the farmer. John McClellan successfully urged the President to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act and end the East and Gulf Coast Dock Strike which had such a devastating impact on Arkansas farmers. John McClellan also voted for the law which ended the West Coast Dock Strike, while David Pryor didn't even bother to come to Washington to vote on this vital bill.

John McClellan has worked with us and for us for thirty years. We need him in the United States Senate to help us develop and enact the new farm program. The present farm program expires next year.

John McClellan is next in line to assume the chairmanship of the Senate Appropriations Committee. During the next six years, it is highly possible that he will become the chairman of this committee, which determines how much federal money the farmer will get.

It's up to you... will John McClellan be given the chance to attain this chairmanship which can be so vital to the future of Arkansas farmers?

John McClellan has helped us for thirty years. Now it's up to us to help him.

Your vote is essential to re-elect John McClellan on Tuesday.

Want to Take Off Pounds?

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Several overweight Miami women have discovered that the best way to take it off is to plug in.

A team of Miami psychologists is helping patients diet by attaching a portable electric "shocker" to their forks to discourage rapid eating.

"We're aiming for a change in eating behavior and we're even doing things like timing the intervals between forks to the mouth and the number of chews of food," said Dr. Michael S. Stokols of the Center for Psychological Services Inc.

"We may ask a patient to bring a portion of her usual dinner right here to our office and then we hook her up with electrodes and the shocking mechanism," he said. "One of us may sit opposite her and eat ourselves. If the patient picks up the fork too soon, she will get a shock."

Stokols said the psychologist sets a timed waiting interval for the patient after analyzing her eating behavior.

The patient soon begins to "chain together" non-eating behavior to take up time at the table instead of simply eating.

"She may take a sip of water, dab her mouth with a napkin, speak to us, instead of wolfing down the food," he explained.

"Most patients at first say they're bad at guessing time intervals, but within a few trials they're approximating the length of time we set for them," he said, adding that if some patients try to "wait us out" they'll get a shock that way too.

"The shock is painful but never injurious," he said.

"We're not shocking the eating itself—just rapid eating. And often we shock only when the patient eats the 'wrong' thing—maybe cake, ice cream and so forth," he said.

The weight loss itself is usually the principal "reinforcer" to change the eating behavior, the psychologist said, noting that some women patients have lost as much as 80 pounds using the center's technique.

And in case a patient begins to backslide into her old "food addiction" approach, there are even portable shockers available.

"We're not just working on weight loss," Stokols emphasized. "We try to approach the person in a total fashion and try to "tease out" whatever emotional problems might have a bearing on the food addiction."

Tucker Critical Of Opponent

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pros. Atty. Jim Guy Tucker was critical Sunday night of the statements of one of the candidates for his office, Lee Munson.

Tucker has received the Democratic nomination for state attorney general.

Munson is seeking the Democratic nomination for prosecuting attorney for Pulaski and Perry counties in a runoff election with Roger Glascock.

Tucker said that "Munson stated that he was opposed to the establishment of a public defender program." Tucker said that statement was "nothing short of irresponsible."

"The lack of a public defender system was a major factor in the complete breakdown of our criminal trial system which occurred in this district while Mr. Munson was a deputy prosecuting attorney," he said.

Tucker said that Munson has also said that consumer protection is not a function of the office.

"That's not true," said Tucker. "The prosecuting attorney's office handles hundreds of consumer protection problems each month."

If you ask our opinion don't blame us if you're bored still.

Here's why:

"I don't buy a car just for myself. I got a wife, 3 kids and a dog. I looked at Fords and Chevys. I just prefer the Plymouth. It's roomier. Dependable. It's my seventh Chrysler product in 9 years."

Freight Train Blown Up in N. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. jets left a 10-mile stretch of North Vietnam's northeast rail line to China and about 60 stranded freight cars in flames Sunday and shot down two more MIG jets, the U.S. Command announced today.

Large orange fireballs lit up the skies 25 miles south of the Chinese border after about 20 Air Force F4 Phantoms attacked the rail line and a string of freight cars 50 to 60 miles northeast of Hanoi, pilots reported.

Two Navy Phantoms from the carrier Coral Sea engaged a pair of MIG17 interceptors 26 miles south of Hanoi and brought them down with missiles, the U.S. Command said. There was no damage to the two Phantoms, the command said, but a Navy A6 was lost on Sunday 45 miles south of Hanoi and the two crewmen were reported missing.

The command said 37 MIGs have been downed this year and 148 have been brought down since June 17, 1965.

Military spokesmen said the action was the start of a concerted effort to destroy an estimated 600 railroad cars stranded on North Vietnam's two rail lines to China by cuts in the lines due to American bombing.

Many of the cars are reported loaded with war materials from China, and the explosions and fires Sunday indicated they contained ammunition and fuel.

Jim: "How about some articles on odds in favor or against various plays. After all, you are the top bridge mathematician."

Oswald: "Let's start with a very common example. You happen to be in six hearts, but the principle is the same at any level. You want to give yourself the best chance to pick up the queen of hearts."

Jim: "There is an old bridge rhyme, 'eight ever, nine never,' which means that you should finesse for the queen when you have eight and play for a drop when you have nine. Actually, the play with nine is close enough so that if you have information from the bidding that indicates uneven distribution in the enemy hands you may play for a 3-1 break and take a second round finesse with nine."

Oswald: "Today there is no indication of uneven breaks. The opponents have not bid and the lead gives little information."

Jim: "It also doesn't matter if South plays the king of hearts or a small heart to start with. Both opponents follow and he plays high on the second round and picks up the queen."

Oswald: "There is a superstition that if you have singletons you should play for a 3-1 break. I say superstition because that is all it is. We will explain this further in tomorrow's article."

Beware of Pools Dairy Man Backs Lowfat Milk

By CARLTON SMITH

Some terrific bargains in backyard swimming pools are available these days—if you listen to, and believe, the thousands of hit-and-run promoters who are victimizing buyers in every corner of the country.

Complaint files are bulging with reports of "bargain" pools that sag, bulge, crack, leak, rust out in a single season and collapse in a strong wind. Buyers can't get needed — and promised — service, and warranties and guarantees prove worthless.

Some of the "bargain" pools carry a low price tag because the price, as it turns out, doesn't include delivery, plot preparation or installation — all of which involve heavy labor, construction skills and equipment that bar do-it-yourself installation of even medium-size pools for most buyers.

These are not isolated instances. According to the National Swimming Pool Institute, representing major manufacturers and dealers, the sale of pools by gyp artists has now become a multi-million-dollar operation — and, it adds, "Promoters are operating in all sections of the country."

Though it will offer instructions on how to do almost anything else yourself, the magazine "Mechanix Illustrated" doesn't encourage pool buyers to attempt installation of anything but the smallest waders. It reports in the current issue numerous cases of filters, pumps and valves that wouldn't work, vinyl liners that didn't fit, back yards turned into swamps, and one incredible 40 by 24-foot pool that was tilted half a foot out of level — giving its owner the sensation of swimming uphill.

And it was ostensibly professional installers who committed these botches. The trouble is that the fast-buck salesman often represents no reputable company. Once they have you signed to a contract, they peddle the contract to any out-of-work construction outfit.

To avoid getting soaked even before you get your pool full of water, author Lester David counsels these precautions:

- Never sign anything you haven't read carefully, and understand. A favorite promoter's trick is to ask for your signature on a form, "just to get an estimate." The form turns out to be an iron-clad sales contract, enforceable in court.

- Make sure you're dealing with a reputable company. And when a salesman says he represents the XYZ Company, check this with the company itself.

- Be skeptical of "tremendous discounts," one-time bargains, special deals and the like. These are standard promoters' gimmicks.

Finally, don't sign up for a pool until you've investigated operating costs.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I read your column stressing the importance of 1 per cent low-fat milk to provide calcium the body needs and that we do not need the animal fat in our present-day diets. I am the vice-president of a dairy company. Having had open heart surgery at the Mayo Clinic a year and a half ago to alleviate blocked arteries to the heart caused by eating foods high in cholesterol and fat, I have attempted to interest all our management personnel and sales people in the importance of 1 per cent low-fat milk in the diet. As a result, we are in the midst of a big promotion of low-fat milk. I want to thank you for your support for low-fat dairy products.

Dear Reader—I am putting your nice letter in the column because it is a fine example of positive leadership. As vice-president of a micks.

- Don't sign a contract that doesn't spell out every detail. According to the National Swimming Pool Institute, it should specify every item of expense for materials and labor, including optional equipment—the full cost, including financing charges if any. Specifications of materials should be included: sizes, weights, colors, style and shape. The seller should be obliged to obtain all necessary permits, and conform to state and local codes and regulations. And the contract should stipulate who will bear the cost, if water, gas or electrical lines have to be moved.

- Make sure guarantees are in writing, and specific. Such blue-sky vagueness as "This pool carries a lifetime warranty" is worthless. Each material or piece of equipment should be dealt with separately.

Finally, don't sign up for a pool until you've investigated operating costs.

large dairy company in Minnesota, you are certainly representative of the forward-thinking policy of much of the modern dairy industry. The provision of low-fat products, such as fortified skim milk and the 1 per cent low-fat milk, plus the uncreamed cottage cheese, has provided the American public with an opportunity to have essential nutritious food values obtained from milk without the problems associated with saturated fat.

Such forward-thinking as you exemplify also insures the probability that the dairy industry will be able to increase the market and help to improve the health of the American public. Satisfied customers promote good business. The provision of all these products by forward-thinking dairy leaders such as yourself is certainly good business, since it results in a lot of satisfied customers who may live longer and use more low-fat milk.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am having a water softener installed in my mobile home, but first I would like to have your opinion. The drinking water would be filtered through salt pellets. Would this water be harmful in any way to a person's health? I have had high blood pressure in the past and I am 64 years old and drink four to five glasses of water a day and would appreciate learning if drinking water from a softener would cause any trouble.

Dear Reader—For people in normal health, water passing through the type of water softener you are describing would not be harmful. They can be harmful for individuals who have any tendency toward retention of fluid or need to restrict the salt in their diet for this reason or for high blood pressure.

Water is often a hidden source of excess salt or sodium. Most commercial water supplies have a minimal amount of salt or sodium in them, but some have more than desirable for individuals with medical problems. For the person who has to severely restrict his sodium or salt intake, it might be wise to use bottled distilled water unless you know for certain from your city water department what the sodium content of your water is and your doctor assures you that it is acceptable for your diet. Individuals who have high blood pressure are usually well-advised not to use excess amounts of salt. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Debate on Arms Cutoff Starts Today

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate begins debate today on a $1.7 billion foreign military aid bill cutting off funds for U.S. troops in Vietnam after Aug. 31.

Prolonged deliberation is anticipated. A similar end-of-the-war issue, ultimately withdrawn, delayed Senate passage of the State Department authorization bill for a month earlier this year.

The end-of-the-war amendment, initiated in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., would require unconditional withdrawal of ground troops from Vietnam Aug. 31 and conditional termination of all U.S. air and naval operations in and over all of Indochina.

Funds to support U.S. participation in Indochina hostilities would be prohibited upon reaching a cease-fire agreement between the United States and the North Vietnamese, release of U.S. war prisoners, and an accounting by North Vietnam for Americans missing in action.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, is expected to lead opposition to the Mansfield amendment, as he did last month to the end-of-the-war rider to the State Department bill.

Stennis told the Senate a month ago that with the North Vietnamese engaged in a powerful new offensive "it is time to buckle down and stand firm."

"The American people want an end to the war," he said, "but they don't want to be driven out."

The bill would authorize $1.65 billion for foreign security assistance, a cut from administration requests totaling $2.151 billion.

The Foreign Relations Committee reduced administration requests for military assistance grants from $780 million to $600 million, foreign military credit sales from $527 million to $400 million, and security supporting assistance from $844 million to $650 million.

The bill would set a $250 million limit on U.S. expenditures in or on behalf of Cambodia, and require specific authorization of Congress for financing of foreign forces operating in Laos, Thailand or North Vietnam.

Countries receiving grant military aid or surplus equipment from the United States would be required to pay 25 percent of the value in their own currencies to meet U.S. obligations in the country and to finance educational and cultural exchange programs.

Treaty Is Essential For Future Marketing of Gas

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Oil Writer
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Oil and Gas conservationists from 34 states heard a plea today for negotiation of a U.S.-Canadian treaty establishing rigid guidelines on natural resources.

Herbert M. Sampson, vice president of Northern Natural Gas Co. at Omaha, Neb., said a treaty is essential to facilitate the marketing of potentially large gas reserves in the Alaskan Northern Slope, Canadian arctic islands and Canadian arctic mainland.

Sampson discussed potential solutions to the U.S. natural gas shortage in a report submitted at the opening session of the two-day mid-year meeting of the Intrastate Oil Compact Commission. The compact was established 38 years ago to serve as a forum of oil and gas conservation matters.

Describing current U.S. natural gas supply problems as most critical, Sampson said three arctic areas offer a prime source of supplemental supply. "No matter what the expense or the technological barriers, means will be found to transport this energy to market," he said. "I am confident that during this decade pipelines will tap all three of these arctic areas but at a tremendous cost."

Sampson added, however, that prevailing Canadian energy policy makes it exceedingly difficult to arrive at prudent business decision. "I find that the calculation of Canadian gas supply reserves and interpretation of Canadian policy at any point in time to be so elusive as to make sound business judgments an impossible task," he said.

Sampson said Northern Natural twice has submitted proposals to supplement its domestic supplies with Canadian gas only to have the plans rejected by the Canadian government.

"We felt that somebody had moved the goal post on us," he said, after explaining that both proposals had been structured on what was thought to have been prevailing Canadian gas export ground rules.

"It is becoming increasingly evident that regulatory bodies in both countries in order to fulfill their responsibilities must have the rigid guidelines provided in a U.S.-Canadian treaty on natural resources," he said.

A common effort to tap the energy and mineral resources of the arctic areas, he added, cannot help but be beneficial to both nations.

"I do not believe that this important step can be taken in an orderly and equitable manner without existence of a treaty acceptable to both nations," he said. "I cannot conceive prudent businessmen in either nation making large commitments without assurances that would be contained in a treaty."

Moderator of Church Former Missionary

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — With a pledge to work toward bringing the various factions within his denomination together, Dr. L. Nelson Bell has taken office as the moderator, or highest elected officer, of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

Dr. Bell, a 77-year-old former surgeon and missionary who now lives in Montreat, was elected at the 112th General Assembly's opening session Sunday. He defeated another physician, Dr. Joseph A. Morton of Little Rock, Ark.

He assumes leadership at a time when the million-member Southern branch of American Presbyterianism is divided over the question of a merger with its Northern counterpart, the United Presbyterian Church.

Conservatives have threatened to split away if the Southern church concedes many doctrinal points in seeking the merger. Bell often has sided with the conservatives, especially in the publications Christianity Today and Presbyterian Journal. He is executive editor of the former and cofounder of the latter.

"When this time comes next year—God willing—we're going to be closer together in Him," Bell told the 450 commissioners at Sunday's meeting.

The commissioners had chosen Bell on the second ballot, first eliminating Dr. William W. McDougald, a journalism professor at the University of Georgia, and Dr. David Stitt, a minister in Houston.

Bell succeeds Dr. Ben Lacy Rose of the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. The moderator serves a one-year term.

Bell said Sunday he does not expect to deal with the merger at this year's assembly. The assembly is expected to decide whether to accept a controversial committee recommendation that it replace the board and agencies that run its programs with a single general executive committee.

The assembly also will deal with a resolution sending a delegation to petition Pope Paul VI to recognize the world's population problems.

Donkeys At Wallace Rally

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer
LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — A pair of donkeys draped in bright campaign banners competed with Country and Western stars for the attention of George Wallace fans Sunday at "Wallace's Woodstock."

The day-long fund raising jamboree for the wounded Alabama governor was the work of Dewey Smith, who admits he got the idea from "the liberals."

Smith was Polk County campaign coordinator for Wallace's successful bid in Florida's March 14 Democratic presidential primary. Wallace was shot by a would-be assassin in Maryland last month and is still in the hospital there.

"Watching television about six weeks ago I got the idea," said Smith. "Barbra Streisand and some of the other big name show business people were putting on a shindig for George McGovern."

"If the liberals can do it, we can, too," he grinned. "And here it is—Wallace's Woodstock."

The donkeys were carted in an open trailer among the throngs at the sprawling Old Plantation Music Park and later hitched to a tree for the benefit of camera buffs.

Canned music blared over a loudspeaker hookup to compete with banjo pickers and guitar bands on the open air stage.

Joining Bluegrass stars Tammy Wynette and Ferlin Husky was George Wallace Jr., stumbling for his before a crowd estimated between 7,000 and 10,000.

Favors Mass Transportation

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — The Indiana Izaak Walton League, claiming the automobile is causing too much pollution, has advocated the end of the federal highway trust fund in favor of more mass transportation systems.

A resolution passed by the 5,500-member league at its annual convention Sunday called for the "phaseout" of the fund when its present five-year authorization ends.

The league said cars "deteriorate the quality of life from noise, physical hazards and the stifling of vegetative cover" and 80 per cent of urban air pollution is caused by them.

Voters Cautioned On Election Law

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Thomas A. Glaze of North Little Rock, chairman of The Election Laws Institute, has cautioned voters who participated in the Republican primaries two weeks ago that it is illegal for them to vote in Tuesday's Democratic runoff election.

Glaze said such crossover voting was a misdemeanor punishable under by a fine of up to $1,000 and imprisonment of up to a year.

Glaze said Saturday nothing had been said about the law and that he wanted the voters to be aware of it in Tuesday's runoff election between Sen. John L. McClellan and Rep. David Pryor.

Charles Bernard of Earle, chairman of the state Republican party, also issued a statement, saying that any registered voter other than a Republican party official and a person who voted in the few locally conducted Republican primaries May 30 could vote on Tuesday.

On another matter, Glaze questioned whether Secretary of State Kelly Bryant had the authority to extend the deadline for submitting petitions to reserve a third-party position on the Arkansas presidential ballot for Alabama Gov. George Wallace. Bryant extended the deadline for 30 days last week when his office discovered that petitions presented to him by American party officials fell about 7,000 names short of the number required.
